

ADVISORS OF F. D. R. AT ODDS OVER BILL TO AID EMPLOYMENT

Controversy Delays Action On Administration's Proposed
Public Works Scheme

DRAFT ON F. D. R.'S DESK

Authorizes $1,000,000,000
Bond Issue to Finance
Projects

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 3.—A controversy between President Roosevelt's advisors over Federal measures for reviving employment today delayed action on the administration's proposed billion dollar public works program.

A draft of the bill was reported on the President's desk. It would authorize a $1,000,000,000 bond issue to finance construction projects designed to increase employment and start the wheels of industry. Of this fund $150,000,000 would be set aside for eradication of slums in the great cities and the remainder divided between post roads, Federal buildings, flood control and public projects.

Two other bills designed to develop work for the unemployed were pending in Congress. One would liberalize the law regarding Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans to states, counties and municipalities. This bill, before the Senate Banking and Currency committee, would set aside another $1,000,000,000 to finance "needed projects" to be undertaken by states, counties and cities. The other bill would lend Federal government aid to states in establishing and maintaining a national system of public employment. This employment service would be set up under the Department of Labor, at a cost of $4,000,000 a year, states receiving all the benefits.

Some of the President's advisors demanded the public works program be postponed entirely until the next session of Congress. They protested the bond market could not sustain a billion dollar issue at this time on the heels of the anticipated inflation of the currency. Those favoring the program declared bonds could be handled easily through the Federal Reserve System as part of inflation. One administration leader declared the President would not act on the public works program for another week. He said the President was busy trying to harmonize differences among new advisors.

College Head Deplores Return of Beer, He Says

DOYLESTOWN, May 3.—"Redemption through beer seems to be the cry of the American people," Dr. John A. W. Haas, of Allentown, president of Muhlenberg College, said last night, addressing 200 ministers and laymen attending the annual convention of the Norristown Conference of the Evangelical Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania and adjacent States, in St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

The well-known educator made a plea to "keep modern civilization from going bankrupt."

"With war, hunger and distress on every hand, a whole nation went crazy on beer when want was here," he said. "It was a sign of the deep degeneracy of the American people."

BURNED TO DEATH

Easton, May 3.—Firemen early today recovered the body of Walter J. Redington, 75, retired iron manufacturer and philanthropist, from the blackened ruins of the superintendent's house on the grounds of Carter's Junior Republic, a boys' school at Redington, near here, where he was burned to death as he slept. The body was burned almost beyond recognition. A watch chain belonging to Redington was found early this morning and several hours later the body was recovered.

The fire broke out about 9 o'clock last night. A houseman on the domestic staff said he saw flames shooting out of the windows and that he heard a cry as he was carrying wood into the shed. He could not enter the burning building because of the intense heat, he said.

Firemen from Easton and Freemansburg were summoned but the house was almost completely destroyed when they arrived.

BEER CONTROL BILL ON DESK OF PINCHOT NOW

Overwhelming House Majority Surprised Even Most Optimistic

VOTE WAS 148 TO 7

(By International News Service)
HARRISBURG, May 3.—Carried through the House by an overwhelming majority that surprised even the most optimistic, the McClure beer control bill rested on Governor Gifford Pinchot's desk today while the Senate prepared to speed the taxation measure to enactment.

Adoption of the bill which taxes beer $1.24 per barrel will give Pennsylvania legislation over which the General Assembly has battled for more than a month. Governor Pinchot is certain to sign both documents. In acting on them he may also put his pen to the constitutional convention bill.

The control bill swept through the House late yesterday by a 148 to 17 vote. Representative Clinton A. Sowers, Philadelphia, co-sponsor of the regulatory and tax measure vetoed by Governor Pinchot, voted in the "aye" column. The Senate gave its approval to the unexpected sweep with unanimous concurrence in minor House amendments.

The regulatory legislation which does not become effective until June 1st provides a local option for prohibition with the retail sale of beer. A referendum cannot be held more than once every four years.

Manufacturers' licenses will be issued at a $100 fee by the State Alcohol Permit Board. Wholesalers, retailers and incorporated clubs will receive licenses from county treasurers. Licenses will be issued to steamships and railroad Pullman cars by the State Department of Revenue.

Anna, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ennis, Jr., of Otter street, has been ill for the past few weeks.

BIGGER BUSINESS AT THE LICENSE BUREAU

One Hundred and Twenty-Seven Issued During April

BRISTOL LED ALL TOWNS

DOYLESTOWN, May 3.—Bigger and better business in the month of April was reported by the marriage license bureau at the Court House when 127 licenses were granted, an increase of eleven over April of last year. Although the business for the year up to date is not as large as 1932 during the same period, there is a prospect of the months of May and June bringing up the total.

There has been an influx of marriage license applicants during the past three weeks. Clerk of Orphans' Court John T. Thompson declared this morning.

Sixty-five per cent of the licenses were granted to non-residents of Bucks county, while Bristol furnished fifteen applicants and led all towns of the county, with Doylestown ranking second with eight applications.

The average age of the female applicants for the month was twenty-five, while the male applicants averaged twenty-seven. Only three male applicants and eleven female applicants were under twenty-one.

Forty-four of the applicants who secured licenses in April were married in Doylestown by clergymen, Justices of the Peace and the Chief Burgess. One of the county judges officiated at one wedding.

Twenty-three of the applicants had been married before, the list including thirteen men and ten women. One applicant took his fourth bride, although the marriage license docket showed that he had never been married before. Eight of the male applicants and six of the female applicants had been divorced.

Trenton furnished fifty-five applicants in April, while forty-eight others came from Philadelphia. Seven states were represented among the residences of the applicants, with New Jersey and Pennsylvania leading Michigan, New York, District of Columbia, Massachusetts and Illinois.

The most popular marrying age in April ranged between twenty-one and twenty-five for all applicants.

Included in the list of applicants were six nurses, ten hosiery workers, ten stenographers and a great number who had no other occupation than housework. The percentage of female applicants who have positions, when they apply for marriage license, has been greatly decreased, the marriage license docket reveals.

The ages of the applicants as they applied for licenses in April are grouped as follows:

	Male	Female
Under 21 years	7	27
21 to 25 years	83	87
25 to 30 years	33	19
30 to 40 years	27	17
40 to 50 years	8	8
50 to 60 years	7	3
Over 60 years	1	0

HILLTOWN SCHOOL BOARD CUTS OUT PROPERTY TAX

Board Abolishes All But $5 Per Capita Levy For 1933-34 Term

TO DRAW ON TREASURY

The Hilltown Township School Board eliminated the real estate tax at its May meeting, in the Hilltown High School, Blooming Glen.

All taxes with the exception of the per capita rate of $5 were abolished, for the first time in the history of the school district, and for the first time in the North Penn. so far as is known.

The "taxpayers' vacation" was declared by the board following a bitter fight, in which the members of the Taxpayers' Association faction accused the members of the old board as playing politics, and threatening the welfare of the school district in abolishing the tax.

Charles E. Wiley and Albert F. Brown, the two taxpayer-directors, were in favor of a heavy cut, but did not at first approve of eliminating the tax. They suggested that the rate be cut to two and a half mills on real estate.

After a lengthy discussion, this move was defeated by a vote of three to two, the old split re-occurring. Wiley then stepped in and made the motion hinted at by President Harvey Baum, moving that all real estate tax be abolished. This motion passed by a vote of four to one.

The abolishment of the tax means that the school district will be forced to draw upon its treasury during the coming year, and that the board is doing some close figuring in comparing its estimated income with the budget.

The balance in the treasury is about $22,000, and there is also a sinking fund of over $9,000. The state appropriation is expected to be in the neighborhood of $7,000, and the township will receive about $1,800 for transportation from the state. Outside tuition should bring in $1,900. Another $7,000 is due from the $5 per capita tax.

If all sources held true to form, the board will no doubt get through the year without difficulty, but the surplus will be drawn upon, and heavily reduced. The total expectation and present resources of the school district total about $32,000.

Brown, who has been serving out the unexpired term of Elmer Umstead, was unanimously elected to that post, for a term of four years. Arthur B. Moyer was elected treasurer over Charles Wiley by a two to three vote. Elmer Knipe was appointed tax collector.

LOWER BUCKS LEAGUE OPENS SEASON; 3 GAMES

Contests Are Staged at Hulmeville, Parkland and Here

I. O. O. F. ARE VICTORS

The Lower Bucks County Baseball League got under way last night with games being played in Bristol, Hulmeville and Parkland.

On Sullivan's field, the Odd Fellows started off on the right foot by noising out the Hibernians, 4-3. Good pitching by Turner Ashby featured the "Oddies" win. Ashby allowed the second-half champions of last year only four hits and outside of a ragged second frame was never in serious danger.

"Ed" Sullivan, the "Hibs" star moundsman of last season, was touched for seven hits, but four of these were bunched in the third inning to score the winning runs.

At Hulmeville, the Langhorne Colored Giants opened by springing a big surprise, easily stopping the Hulmeville team, 11-1. The Hulmeville team could not do anything with the slants of T. Harris, of the Giants, and only registered two bingles.

The winners collected eleven bingles from Foster and Black. Foster burlied the first inning and was found for five runs and two more in the second before being relieved by Black. "Eddie" Thompson led the hitters with three hits, two being doubles.

Bristol A. A. and Parkland battled to a 1-1 deadlock at Parkland. This fray went six innings. C. Moll and Ash Gardner did the twirling for the Parkland team while "Henny" Morgan went the full distance for Mulholland's nine.

Parkland scored their run in the first frame, while the Bristol boys tied it up in the fourth inning. Bilger scored Parkland's run with the aid of a fly to the outfield. Fine scored

In the finals Peter Monti, who had won two hard-fought matches, lost out to Dransfield, whose skill was applauded several times by the crowd of fans. "Johnny" had a peculiar way of protruding his tongue an inch or so from the left side of his mouth before rying difficult shots, and was usually successful. He said after winning the championship, that this habit has been the secret of the success of many of his matches.

SCHOOL BOARD SETS SAME TAX RATE AS LAST YEAR

Teachers' Salaries Are Cut
10%; Janitors Get Reduction

DEFICIT NOW $20,000

Want to Shorten Term to Prevent Further
Deficit

Bristol Borough School Board last night fixed the tax rate at the same figure that it was last year—16 mills and $4 per capita tax.

It was announced that the board will start the 1933-1934 year with a deficit of $20,000, the funds now being practically exhausted.

President Doron Green was authorized to discuss with the State Educational Department the question of shortening the 1933-1934 term, so as not to incur larger deficit than the $20,000 with which the board begins the year.

The board announces that the delinquent taxes total $34,000.

All teachers, superintendents and principal were given a 10 per cent cut in salaries. No teacher will receive less than $1,000 a year, however, it was stated. Janitors will be given a reduction but not on a percentage basis.

All yearly increases in salaries for teachers have been stopped, under the new state law, for a period of two years. The reduction in salaries will total approximately $10,000.

Mrs. David O. Taylor was elected for four years as secretary of the board at her present salary of $400 and Emil Metzger was re-named as treasurer, at his present salary of $500.

COMPROMISE

The only final enemies are the good and the bad, the true and the false. These are at odds in every struggle, even though the human share in their warfare may be confused beyond divination. Yet a man is either sure that he fights for the right or he confesses to himself that the right does not concern him and that his loyalties are to be sold for his ambitions. In such strife the sincere man cannot yield unless he first surrenders his convictions; the man with no convictions beyond his own ambitions can end will give ground for what he may get out of it.

Truth is always under the fire of his enemies and has also within the gates of its citadel another enemy, who tempts with the quick peace of compromise. This is the traitor who is ready to meet the enemy on the middle ground where defense surrenders all its advantage or will yield a gate or tower under the spur of fear, and so destroy the integrity of his city.

Much honest conviction and many institutions built upon it have gone down through such surrender to expediency. Remembering this, clear-sighted and whole-hearted men have small taste for compromise. They fight for their standards or fall beside them and leave to those of lesser faith the hazardous peace of a bargain with the enemy. Were it not for this gallant obstinacy of the free spirit, few things worth while would ever have been won or held for the service of man.

THE NEW WORLD

By all the evidence, we learn that a fundamental change befell the world within the last two centuries; some change that was no mere incident to the grinding of the mills of time, but one which led swiftly to new knowledge, new modes of society, new hopes for progress and happiness. Observers have placed at different points in history the birth of the new order, and with less assurance have offered one cause or another for the upheaval. Yet it is clear that modern history is an effect rather than a cause and that its stirring events declare some fundamental change in the racial environment which has permitted and created this vigorous confusion.

Human nature, we know, has not much changed. Our loves, our hates, our hopes and fears, are much like those of old. If there is change, it is in the light and air in which the human spirit lives and breathes. These, by some mystery beyond our present fathoming, are different, as though a clean, strong wind had swept old mists and darkness away.

Such evidence declares that there is a purpose to history and some supreme guidance at work for human destiny. The new era was not much of our own making; it came as if in spite of us, after a long night of ignorance and misery. It has given us a new world, rich with promise and bright with hope for all that is worth while.

The oldest school house in Bucks County is located on the Swamp Road in Lower Makefield Township. The old octagon building, still in fine condition due to the work of the Bucks County Historical Society, was built in 1775 with money and land donated by residents of that section. A farmer named Neils donated the land. Pupils who could afford to pay for their tuition were charged 25 cents per week, the master receiving 3 cents a day per child, the remainder of the money being used for equipment. Two descendants of former trustees and founders of the old school still live in that section and oversee the preservation of the building in which their ancestors learned their three R's. "MARY FAITH"

by Beatrice Burton

COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

CHAPTER XXXI

Mary Faith left her there with Kim and hurried in to put clean towels in the bathroom before Dr. Thatcher arrived. It was ten o'clock and the house was still in its Saturday-morning disorder. Aunt Ella, who was a late riser, was still sitting at the dining-room table, drinking endless cups of coffee and making a crunching sound with her teeth as she ate her toast. She had on her purple-and-white bath robe and she spoke to Mary Faith without lifting her eyes from the morning newspaper.

"I could just shake Amelia Farrell!—The way she fusses up every time that old doctor is coming to the house is just plain silly!—I shall sit right here where I am and in this bathrobe until he gets here. My goodness, he ain't the King of England!"

But nevertheless when the doctor's ring came at the front door she got up and scuttled into the room she shared with Mrs. Farrell, leaving the floor under her chair covered with toast crumbs and the table littered with newspapers.

Five minutes later she came walking into Kim's bedroom, looking as neat as wax in her grey linen house dress with its white collars and cuffs. "Just a little sore throat—ain't that all?" she asked.

Dr. Thatcher shook his iron-gray head.

"No, that's not all. He has bronchitis, too, Mrs. Good," he said. "I've just been telling these good ladies"—he nodded in the direction of Mary Faith and Mrs. Farrell—"that we'll have to keep him in bed for a few days and give him a very light diet. Soups and fruit juices, mainly."

He was much better by the following Tuesday. On Wednesday he got up and after lunch he dressed himself and said he was going to the office.

Late in the afternoon it began to rain and at five o'clock Mary Faith decided to call him up and beg him to come home in a taxicab instead of his open roadster.

"Mr. Farrell is not here this week," the voice of the telephone operator in McIntire and West-over's office informed her. "Is there anyone else you'd like to speak to?"

"Yes," answered Mary Faith. "Please let me talk to Mr. Maldon. She would ask Jack to give Kim her message. There must be some mistake. Surely Kim was at the office."

"Hello," Jack's voice came to her over the wire. "Hello."

"Jack?—This is Mary Faith. Is Kim around the office?"

"Sandy? No. Did you think he was here?"

Mary Faith hesitated. "He left the house this afternoon in his car," she said. "I thought he might be down there. He must have gone somewhere else. Thanks, Jack."

At eight o'clock he had not come home. The three women sat down to a dinner of dried-up lamb chops and stewed corn that had cooled so long that it was light brown instead of smooth pale yellow. The salad had wilted in its bowl and the coffee was bitter from standing on the back of the stove for two hours.

At ten o'clock the "sisters Kim-berly" went to bed, and Mary Faith settled herself in her chair in the sitting room to wait for Kim.

A year and a half before she would have been frantic with worry over him. She would have pictured him in a dozen accidents—under the wheels of his car, lying in a ditch by the side of a road or in a narrow white hospital bed.

On the cover was printed in red and gold letters: The Golden Pheasant Tavern.

But now she had learned that when he did not turn up at nightfall it was because he wanted to stay away from home—and her only anxiety was for his health. The rain was sluicing down outside and he had taken no overcoat with him. He never should have gone out today at all. She blamed herself for letting him go.

At twelve o'clock she went back to her bedroom and lay down on the bed, fully dressed.

"I won't go to sleep," she thought drowsily, and dropped off. The next thing she knew she was wide awake, her heart beating like a drum and one side of her face damp and warm where it had been pressed into the pillow.

She heard the front door of the flat close. Then she heard slow uncertain steps along the narrow hall that led to the bedroom. The room was filled with sudden light and Kim stood in the doorway with his hand on the electric-light switch. His gray suit was dark with rain and the bottoms of his trousers were yellow with mud. Rain glistened on his face and darkened the gold of his close-clipped hair.

"Where in the world have you been, Kim?" she asked, her eyes sweeping him from head to foot. "Out in all this downpour—as sick as you've been—"

"I'm sick this minute," he said sullenly, "so keep all your heckling until tomorrow morning—will you, please?"

She could see that he was sick. He was shaking all over with a chill as he took off his sodden clothes and got into bed.

He closed his eyes and went to sleep almost instantly. She stood looking at him with anxious shadowy eyes for a minute. Then she bent over and began to pick up the clothes that he had left in a heap on the floor beside the bed.

As she hung his damp wrinkled coat over the back of the chair by the window a little pad of safety matches fell to the floor from one of the pockets. On the cover was printed in red and gold letters:

THE GOLDEN PHEASANT TAVERN

The Golden Pheasant Tavern. Why, that was the place where she and Kim had stopped for coffee and a club sandwich on their way to Garrettville the day they were married. It was twenty-five miles from town at the very least. It came flashing into her mind like a picture on a silver-screen—a little white house set far back from the road, with nothing to give it its name but a gilded bird set on its roof as a weather vane. Who had been there with him? she wondered.

She turned and looked at him, his straight fine features looking finer than ever in his sleep, his hair brushed back from a broad high forehead—that is said to belong to ways to people of strong intellect and splendid character.

"And yet he behaves just like a bad little boy," she thought. "He tells me lies and sneaks away from me, just the way he used to do with his mother—"

Well, in the morning she would have all this out with him. She would tell him that she didn't want to be his mother, his guardian, but his partner—and that he would have to play fair with her—or else—

Her brain stopped at that point. She knew that no matter what he did or how he treated her she would go right on as she was going with him. She knew that she loved him too much ever to lay down any ultimatum to him—

Economic Delegate

Although he previously declined appointment as U. S. Ambassador to Germany, James M. Cox, Democratic nominee for President in 1920, is said to have accepted President Roosevelt's invitation to be a delegate to the World Economic Conference, to be held in London in June. It is also reported that the President, himself, may attend at least one of the London meetings.

They tortured 15 motor cars . . . TO MAKE A BETTER FUEL

DAY after day, last August, a score of engineers lashed cars up and down one of the toughest roads in the Allegheny Mountains. The men represented thirteen great automobile and refining companies, a scientific research society, a famous university. They were pooling their knowledge in one great experiment . . . and when they got through, more was known about what actually goes on inside an engine than had ever been known before. ATLANTIC engineers shared in this experiment. They confirmed their belief in the supreme quality of ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH. But the discoveries which were made gave them clues for further improving this fine fuel. For months they have been carrying on research . . . in the laboratory and in the engines of the 1200 Atlantic trucks and passenger cars from Maine to Florida. They have experimented with new crude oils, new equipment. And at last they have produced a NEW WHITE FLASH!

That new fuel will be here SATURDAY

You'll have a chance to try it, SATURDAY. And though superlatives are distasteful to most of us, you'll probably have to depend on them to describe the NEW WHITE FLASH to your friends. There has never been anything like it before.

- It has, we believe, more power than any other fuel ever offered at or near its price. Hills melt away before it.

- It has such remarkable pick-up that those who have tried it say it has no equal in this respect.

- It will bring you a smoother-running engine . . . because its secret formula insures an even charge to every cylinder.

- It will start your engine quicker. Warm it up with less use of the choke. Give you greater mileage than ever.

And by giving you these premium qualities at regular-gasoline price, it will save you many dollars . . . at a time when every dollar counts. Wait for it! Try it! Expect great things from it! The NEW WHITE FLASH is powerfully better in every way.

DICK'S HOME RUN FEATURE OF TWILIGHT'S FIRST GAME

BRISTOL TWILIGHT LEAGUE
Schedule for Tonight
ST. ANN'S vs. INDEPENDENTS
(St. Ann's Field)
Result of Last Night
EDGELY, 7; DAMP WASH, 6
(4 innings)

"Frankie" Dick's home run with two runners on base featured the Bristol Twilight League game at Edgely last night as the game was called in the fourth inning because of darkness. Edgely A. C. last year's champions were leading the Damp Wash A. A. at the time, 7-6.

Leinheiser, centerfielder of the Edgelyites, also hit a home run. His slam came in the third inning and climaxed a four run rally. The pill on this occasion rolled into the canal in left field and despite the fast fielding by Gilardi was an easy homer.

The Damp Wash team was impressive but lacked the batting punch. Only two hits were made by this club and both were credited to LeRoy Reese. He would have had another bingle to his credit had it not been for a circus catch by Leo Gould of the Edgely team.

Flashed Into Derby Favor

Here is "Mr. Khayyam," of the Catawba Farms, who caused many of the expert forecasters to revise their predictions as to the outcome of the Kentucky Derby by his brilliant performance at Havre De Grace, recently. "Mr. Khayyam" romped home by six lengths from a field of fifteen, in the $7,500 Chesapeake Stakes, lowering the track record by two-fifths of a second. He is the son of "Omar Khayyam," who won the Blue Grass classic in 1917.

Legion Protests Against Economy Act Affecting 'Vets'

The Robert W. Bracken Post held its regular meeting last evening in the Post Rooms and accepted the invitation from the Bristol Presbyterian Church to attend a special Memorial service on Sunday evening, May 28, at eight o'clock.

The following resolution was adopted:
RESOLVED, That the Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion, protest against the obvious inequities in the Presidential orders issued under the authority of the Economy Act and since the American Legion seems in the eyes of the nation to represent the veteran and will undoubtedly be attacked and bear the

Music "Heard" by the Deaf

Here is pictured a remarkable experiment recently conducted at a New York school for the deaf, whereby deaf children were enabled to hear instead of trying to make the sound penetrate the ears of the sufferers this device carries mechanical vibrations through the bones of the head. Countess Olga Albani is shown singing into a microphone as the deaf children listen. This was the first time many of the children had ever heard music.

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By ANN PAGE

VARIETY is the spice of life, and that applies particularly to food. To be sure, we must eat to live, but well planned meals should be appetizing as well as nourishing. It's easy enough to talk about variety, but securing it is something else again, especially on a limited budget.

Everyday foods can be made much more interesting by varying the condiments with which they are served. Mustard adds a pleasing tang to many meats, and salad dressing just seems to have a natural affinity for salads or spring greens.

There is a wide variety of low priced vegetables to choose from this week—string beans, peas, tender new cabbage, and celery. Seasonable fruits include strawberries, oranges, and that unflattering harbinger of spring, rhubarb.

For Sunday dinner the markets are offering poultry, beef, pork and lamb. Prices are reasonable.

The three Sunday Dinner Menus planned by the Quaker Maid Kitchen are appetizing, well balanced and based on foods which are economical this week.

Low Cost Dinner:
Hamburg Cakes with Mustard
Mashed Potatoes
Green Beans
Bread and Butter
Orange Custard
Milk Coffee or Tea

Medium Cost Dinner:
Roast Shoulder of Lamb
Browned Potatoes
Peas
Shredded New Cabbage (with Salad Dressing)
Bread and Butter
Rhubarb Pie
Milk Coffee or Tea

Very Special Dinner:
Fruit Juice Cocktail
Fried Chicken, Cream Gravy
New Potatoes
Buttered Asparagus
Tomato Salad
Rolls and Butter
Strawberry Shortcake
Milk Coffee or Tea

Kentucky Derby Hopeful

With probably the largest following among Western nominees for the Blue Grass classic at Churchill Downs, "Charley O," owned by the R. M. Eastman Estate, is considered one of the most formidable challengers of "Ladysman," the favorite, for premier honors. "Charley O" won the Florida Derby in great style and, since then, has turned in impressive performances in workouts over fast and slow tracks.

odium in case of the Veterans' Protest Day instituted in Philadelphia to be held on Sunday, June 11th, 1933, that we urge the National Executive Committee of the American Legion to give it unqualified support.

Copies of this resolution to be sent to Pennsylvania State Department of the Legion, copy to Ninth District Commander and also copy given to local press for publication.

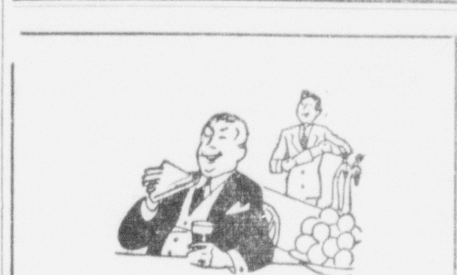

Legion also made public copy of letter sent Representative Henry W. Watson, as follows:

Hon. Henry W. Watson, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

Honorable Sir:

As Service Officer and in behalf of the members of the above named Post I extend to you our most sincere thanks for your vote against the so-called Economy Bill of 1933, the provisions of which are going to work untold hardships on Disabled Veterans, Service Connected, many of whom will, if this law is not modified, eventually become charges of the local or state governments adding to their already heavy burdens.

The extent of the injury to justly deserving veterans will not be known by the general public until the great majority of veterans for some time and although the public is clamoring for economy in government I do not believe they want economy at the expense of suffering on the part of the men who incurred the disabilities in their defense and when they realize the great injustice being perpetrated on this nation's war disabled they will force a rapid change in policy.

With a feeling as only men who have served the colors can feel toward the welfare of our Country and with a desire to co-operate with our Commander-in-Chief in every way humanly possible we ask in all justice that the World War Veterans Act of 1924 be re-instated. We also understand a movement is underway to cut thirty-four million dollars from the appropriation bill and this will mean the closing of Regional Offices of the Veterans Administration. It is absolutely necessary if the thousands of Service Disabled Veterans in Pennsylvania are to be properly taken care of that the offices at Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Harrisburg and Scranton be kept open.

If our Disabled Veterans are to be properly taken care of it is absolutely necessary that you use every effort to have the World War Veterans Act of 1924 re-instated and vote against any further cuts in the appropriation bill. I am sure you will continue your good work in behalf of our War Disabled.

Yours truly,
I. J. HETHERINGTON,
